Dear Ross

I sold my house on the Gold Coast in December 2005, after owning it seven years. At the time of purchase, a perimeter pray was conducted because of surrounding termite infestation.

I was told at purchase by the pest exterminator, to have an annual check for termites. Because of financial constraints, this did not occur. However, in 2004, I think it was, after looking for/researching various termite products, I discovered Termitecta.

I was impressed by the product as -

1. I was able to monitor any termite invasion myself;
2. It was a natural product as both my daughter and I are allergy/asthma sufferers;
3. The initial outlay was comparable to a termite inspection with long term peace of mind that your major asset was protected.

When I sold my house, I made both the agent and prospective buyers aware of the Termitecta system. The pest inspection on the house ultimately passed "with flying colours" and I have every confidence the system was a selling feature.

I now live on the Sunshine Coast and am again in a similar situation termite-wise, as on the Gold Coast. I have no hesitation in installing the product once again and have recommended it to a number of my friends.

Yours faithfully
